- Installation Over Roof Membrane: In the case of installation over a torched-down or PVC membrane roof. Roof membrane must always be installed and used in accordance with manufacturer's specifications. Most membrane manufacturers require a sacrificial layer between their membrane and anything on top of it. For example IB Roofing and Durolast recommend a 40mil HDPE Abrasion Sheet between their membrane and our deck tiles. It is strongly recommended that whichever membrane system is used, consumers and contractors choose a more durable 80mil version rather than a standard 50mil product. Zometek does not warranty any leaks or issues associated with the roofing membrane system.
